

Navigation General

Rules And Regulations

This Study Guide Generated Fo

Preview Only

DO NOT DISTRIBUTE

Which piece of navigational safety equipment is NOT required on towing vessels over 12 meters in length, provided that the vessel remains within the navigable waters of the U.S.?

GPS receiver

Towing vessels of more than 39.4 feet in length must carry charts or maps _____.

of the current edition or currently corrected edition of the area to be navigated with enough detail to make safe navigation possible
All of the above.

The owner or Master of a towing vessel shall ensure that all tests and inspections of gear take place and are logged _____.

before embarking on a voyage of more than 24 hours

See REF315

The owner or Master of a towing vessel shall ensure that all tests and inspections of gear take place and are logged _____.

when a new Master assumes command

See REF315

The test of a towing vessel's steering gear control system includes each item EXCEPT _____.

timing the movement of the rudder from hard over to hard over

Which navigational equipment is required to be tested and logged before a towing vessel embarks on a voyage of more than 24 hours?

All required navigational equipment, without exception

See REF1103

Which installed equipment must be tested and logged when a new Master assumes command?

Navigational lights and search lights
Internal communications, including sound-powered telephones
Vessel control alarms
All of the above.

When the owner or Master inspects his/her towing vessel before embarking on a voyage of more than 24 hours, he/she must check all terminal gear EXCEPT _____.

quick release towing hook and control system, to see that it operates properly

The owner or Master of a towing vessel must ensure that each person that directs and controls the movement of the vessel knows all of the following EXCEPT _____.

the ownership of the vessel(s) being towed

The owner or Master of a towing vessel shall ensure that each person that directs and controls the movement of the vessel can accurately fix the vessel's position using all of the following EXCEPT _____.

buoys alone

See REF315

The owner or Master of a towing vessel shall ensure that each person that directs and controls the movement of the vessel can accomplish all of the following EXCEPT _____.

reduce speed only where local speed limits are posted

See REF315

